RECOMMENDED START

Start with the Pilot Build.

It keeps the first decision simple. The company gets a working QR intake and lead dashboard without committing to a long contract. After one event or one campaign, we can review scans, hot leads, common issues, follow-up speed, and booked appointments. If it works, we can move into a monthly partnership or buyout license.

WHAT THE COMPANY GETS

- A customer-facing water issue quiz branded for the company.	- Lead temperature logic that helps the team prioritize follow-up.
- An admin dashboard with searchable records and CSV export.	- Staff-friendly follow-up scripts based on each customer's concerns.
- Training so the company can use the system confidently.	- Optional monthly optimization as more lead data comes in.

POSITIONING TO SAY IN PERSON

"I am freelancing right now after Johnson & Johnson because I want to focus on building real business systems. I can help with sales conversations, but I think I can bring you more value by improving how leads come in, how fast your team follows up, and how your managers see what is working. I already built a proof example for a water solutions funnel, and we can start with a small pilot."

OPTIONAL ADD-ONS

- Website chatbot or guided water-test assistant.	- Appointment reminder text/email templates.	- Monthly lead performance report.
- Sales objection scripts and training sheets.	- Campaign landing pages for events or neighborhoods.	- Custom integrations after the pilot proves value.
